Codominance (adapted from Grade 8 Learner's module -since non-Mendelian is not included in the learning competency) Another pattern of inheritance is codominance. This results when one allele is not dominant over the other. The resulting heterozygotes exhibit the traits of both parents. One example of codominance is the MN blood typing in humans. On the surface of our red blood cells are ...

Inquiry-based learning (also enquiry-based learning in British English) is a form of active learning that starts by posing questions, problems or scenarios. It contrasts with traditional education, which generally relies on the teacher presenting facts and their own knowledge about the subject. Inquiry-based learning is often assisted by a facilitator rather than a lecturer.

Your grade-schooler may be happy to try new things, or it may take numerous exposures to a new food before he's willing to give it a go. So be patient. When you do offer a new food, simply place it on the dinner table with everything else, and don't make a big deal about it. Don't put it right on your child's plate; let him choose it for himself. He might dig right in, or he may warm up to it ...
